COLLEGE or CHOOSE YOUR OWN

When I was in high school and I heard that word - instant break out mode - I would get a weird, uncomfortable knot in my stomach and I would just ignore it and think about something else. But I couldn't stop myself and overthinking about I would go, CUNY or SUNY, my friends, responsibility... it was all too much and it stressed me out. I'm happy a little bit stressed in because college is pretty hard and I wish my high school prepared me more to then but this happening. In a college, City College, and I'm happy doing my work and being on my own. It's not too scary now to a freshman and I hope I do really good here so my family can be proud of me. I know college will get easier for me because once I get used to it there will be no more stress. I love being a student in my college and I'm happy that I can be on a sweat I gave me working out.
