

Free Write: Reading

Free Write

October 15, 2018

READING

Opening up a book and looking the cover and flipping the pages and sort of glimpsing at some of the words on the pages is so refreshing. I tend to begin books without finishing them because I end up watching the movie or become uninterested. I think I've read a few books fully and it was good books according to me. I like reading when there's peace and quiet and when the stress is free. But that's pretty hard to do when I live in a house of girls. My mom and 2 sisters. My mom is singing her music and baking. My younger sister is playing fortnite on full volume. Lastly my baby sister is watching Peppa pig on the big tv in the living room and with all that noise it's hard to read. I know that it's something we should all do we gain a lot of information and become wiser from it but sometimes it's difficult for me. I remember I used to read a lot in elementary school, Jury B Jones, Diary of a Wimpy Kid...