RELIGIOUS TEXTS/ARTS

I was 16 years old when I went inside the church for the last time. It was only for my sweet 16s. My family really aren't too religious but we do believe in god and always doing the right thing. But whenever I did go to church the first thing I look at are the religious Arts/Pictures and the texts underneath them. My favorite is St. Jude, his art work is his full body with the background being blue and grass around his feet. He's wearing his white long sort of dress and a big green piece of cloth and he's holding a long thin piece of wood. He has a white circle and a hat are on top of his head and he's touching his chest. His eyes are looking at me and I feel safe. I put my hands together and I pray for forgiveness of the things I did wrong like not listening to my mom because I'm lazy or being mean to my sisters because they're annoying but at the end of that I pray for the wellness for the pope of the world. That we all feel safe, are fed, have a home... When I am done I stand up, my knees sort of hurt because the padding is wet and I bless myself and I feel like such a heavy weight on my shoulders have been lifted.
